investments in scaling operations—particularly dark store expansion,—will continue to weigh on their profitability.

According to analysts, the bulk of infrastructure-related investments for both companies peaked in the fourth quarter of FY25. However, expenses are not expected to decline enough in the April-June quarter to reflect in narrowed losses. Fixed costs, especially those associated with a larger store network, remain elevated.

Kotak Institutional Equities estimates Blinkit's GMV to grow 24% and revenue to increase 13% year-on-year in the April-June quarter. This growth will be primarily led by high store additions and throughput ramp-up, which continue to keep fixed costs high. "We expect Blinkit to report contribution margin of 3.2% as a percentage of GMV, a minor 10 basis point improvement from 3.1% reported in Q4," Kotak said. It expects adjusted Ebitda losses to remain around ₹180 crore, nearly unchanged from the previous quarter.

Motilal Oswal Financial Services has pegged Blinkit's contribution margin at 3%, suggesting little movement in operational profitability.

Instamart is also expected to post healthy top-line growth with GMV likely rising 113% year-on-year, driven again by large-scale store additions.

"Large store additions should also drive a proportionate increase in fixed costs, resulting in an adjusted Ebitda loss of ₹850 crore, similar to the loss of ₹840 crore reported in Q4," Kotak said.

An analyst tracking the sector said that profitability improvements will take another two to three quarters as a substantial portion of the dark stores reach maturity. "Each dark store typically takes 8-9 months to mature. Many stores across Blinkit and Instamart will hit that point in Q3 and Q4," the analyst said.

Despite the muted bottom-line trajectory, both platforms are expanding their market share. ICICI Securities estimates Blinkit grew more than 25% quarter-on-quarter and Instamart over 22%, compared with sector growth of under 20%. This outperformance could pressure rivals like Zepto, BBNOW, and Flipkart Minutes, all of whom have been scaling up investments to stay competitive.
